

Revision of Voters' Lists Commences April First

The federal voters' list is to be revised during the next three months the official period being from April 1st to June 30th. As E. M. Stewart is the registrar of electors and revising officer for the electoral district of Battle River, the revision office will be located at Vermilion.

All those who have attained the age of 21, or who have been granted naturalization papers since the general registration in 1924, will have an opportunity of having their names placed on the voters' list. Qualified electors whose names were not included in the list last fall, those who have recently moved into the constituency, and those who have moved from one poll to another in this electoral district will be able to have their names placed on the list for the proper polling division.

Application may be made to the revising officer as follows:

1. Application of objection to the retention of a name on the list. (On the grounds of removal, death, lack of residence or naturalization qualifications, etc.)
2. Applications from electors for registration as such.
3. Applications from electors for registration as such through an agent.

4. Applications for correction of names, addresses or occupations on the list.

5. Application for registration by an illiterate person.

6. Application for registration of an elector by a relative or employer.

7. Request for the transfer of a name from one poll to another within an electoral district.

Objection to the retention of a name on the list may only be made during the month of April so that the person objected to may be given at least two weeks' notice to appear before a Court of Revision. Other applications may be made any time during April, May or June, prior to the date set for sitting of the Court of Revision for the district in which their poll is situated. The Registrar may also accept these latter applications at the sittings of the court.

For the purpose of this revision the constituency of Battle River has been divided into 23 revision districts in each of which a sitting of the Court of Revision will be held on a date between May 15 and July 1. At these sittings electors or their agents will have an opportunity of showing reason as to why their names should be added to the list. The decision of the revising officer may be appealed to a judge.

The places at which the Court of Revision will sit are as follows:

1. Provost, May 20; 2. Metlakow, May 21; 3. Hughenden, May 22; 4. Silver Heights, May 23; 5. Hainbury, May 27; 6. Irma, May 28; 7. Wainwright, May 29; 8. Chauvin, May 30; 9. Elberton, May 31; 10. Paradise Valley, June 4; 11. Kitcooty, June 5; 12. Vermilion, June 6; 13. Auburn, June 7; 14. Islay, June 10; 15. Lloydminster, June 11; 16. Marwayne, June 12; 17. Dewberry, June 13; 18. Mannville, June 14; 19. Minburn, June 17; 20. Innisfree, June 18; 21. Myram, June 19; 22. Derwent, June 20; 23. Clondomond, June 21.

It is moderately timed, and also has a present-day setting in New York and other places. It treats of the delicate subject of divorce, without making any effort at justification or condemnation. It is the eternal triangle with a fourth angle included, but after many vicissitudes in the story, the man, no longer willing to surrender that which he feels is rightfully his, finally decides that rather than wreck all three lives it is best that he consent to a divorce.

It is a truly powerful story of modern life in great cities and will prove a big attraction for this week end.

Newly Weds to Need Clean Bill of Health

Bills of health will have to be produced by prospective couples in this province before marriages can be performed, under a bill introduced in the legislature by Hon. George Howley, minister of health, to amend the solemnization of Marriage Act.

Last year, a similar bill introduced in the house by the minister caused widespread interest and was finally withdrawn, as it was felt that the public was not sufficiently informed.

An educational campaign has been carried on in the province during the year by those approving of such legislation and Mr. Howley expects it to receive a more favorable reception now.

The minister said the local council of women, women's institutes, U.P.A., U.P.W.A. and the medical profession had been consulted and approved of the proposed legislation.

Under the terms of the bill, "A certificate of due publication of banns and, in addition, an affidavit by each party to the intended marriage, setting out that the party making the affidavit is not then infected with any venereal disease or any other communicable disease," shall be produced before a marriage ceremony is performed.

Imperial Veterans Planning Re-Union

Imperial ex-servicemen of the province are planning to hold a re-union and conference at Sylvan lake in June when three main points for discussion will be hospitalization, pensions and social legislation. The idea of the get-together is to "foster a better understanding of the Imperial and their needs; also to present concrete proposals to the Canadian and British governments, through the existing ex-servicemen's organization."

Dechene Advocates Crop Insur. Inquiry

Mr. J. M. Dechene, Liberal M.L.A. for St. Paul constituency, last week advocated appointment of a commission to study the question of crop insurance applicable to the entire province to meet existing conditions.

In support of his motion, Mr. Dechene declares that every year farmers in different localities suffer grievous crop losses through climatic conditions such as drought, frost, hail and other causes. In great many cases, these conditions have resulted in want and suffering and have compelled involved farmers to seek relief for seed and supplies for their homes.

In the districts so affected, declares Mr. Dechene, the whole business structure suffers as a result of these losses by the farmers and the consequent lack of purchasing power. He contends that this method of meeting such calamities is uneconomic and repugnant to our farmers, who are thus compelled, through no fault of their own, to seek this relief.

Mr. Dechene is hopeful that his suggestion will be readily adopted by the house.

Monday, May 6th, Dominion Holiday

On the notice board in the local post office lobby will be seen a Proclamation issued by C. H. Cahan, Secretary of State of Canada, by the authority of Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Attorney-General.

This Proclamation states that the Earl of Bessborough, Governor-General, has been advised by H. M. the King that the clergy and ministers of all churches give special thanks to God at their services on Sunday, May 6th, for the favors and blessings bestowed on the people of Canada during the 25 years of the present reign.

The notice further states that Monday, May 6th, has been declared a Dominion holiday.

Looking in retrospect over the last 25 years we find this has been a reign full of important events in the world's history. From the viewpoint of 1910 almost unbelievable developments have been made in the field of mechanics, electricity, aviation, engineering, medicine, surgery and so on. There have been many troublous times, too, in this last quarter of a century—the late war, with its waste of unemployment and misery and crises in affairs of state both at home and abroad, yet our King and Queen have ever shown that spirit of courage and sympathy which binds them close to hearts throughout the Empire.

So on May 6th as many of the people of the Empire as can do so, will honor the Silver Jubilee of Britain's King and Queen by taking a holiday.

In "England's Green and Pleasant Land" itself celebrations and festivities of all kinds will take place. Old customs, such as roasting a whole ox, will be revived and the day will be one of general rejoicing.

Wainwright, along with the rest of Canadian cities, towns, and villages, will doubtless contribute her share to the celebrations in some form or another—probably in sports of some description, weather conditions permitting.

The world is still in a state of turmoil—perhaps worse than at any time during the present reign. Yet our King and Queen may have strength and guidance for the years to come will be the wish of hearts from sea to sea in the British Commonwealth.

Our education system is rather an expense on our small country but we are proud of it, and it is supposed to be one of the best in the world.

If I haven't made myself clear on any point, I will seek someone's advice and write again.

If you care to continue corresponding with me I should be very pleased to write to you. One of our teachers, Miss I. Whitton, taught in Quebec for a while.

Tax Reduction Boosts Demand

Since Great Britain removed the tax of two cents a pint on beer, consumption has increased by eight per cent and, in the opinion of motorists' organizations, this gives more support to the opinion that a reduction in gasoline tax would inevitably lead to higher consumption of gasoline and increased revenue to provincial treasuries.

Advance returns of Customs and Excise authorities in England show 590,000,000 gallons of beer sold last year—forty million gallons more than in the previous year when the "penny a pint" tax was in force.

In Canada official statistics show that as gasoline tax has increased, sales of gasoline have decreased.

Local Scholar Learns of New Zealand Sch.

Pupils of the local high school have been corresponding with those of several far distant places, to learn something of the manner in which other countries run their scholastic systems, and the following letter will prove explanatory:

Darling, St.
Geraldine,
New Zealand
Feb. 22, 1935

Dear Donna,

I am very pleased when I read your letter, and I hope I answer it satisfactorily. I am probably entering the training college for teachers next year, as I am to be a teacher.

Our system of education is rather like yours. We have a school committee, an education board and a minister of education.

The householder elect the school committee (about 10 men). It has very limited power. It is responsible for the upkeep of the school and grounds. The headmaster makes a monthly report to the committee. If they do not like a teacher all they can do is to send in a protest to the Education Board. The committee are not concerned with the studies of the pupils. The government used to grant a subsidy of a £ on every pound raised by the committee for school fees, but two years ago, when they tried to cut down expenses.

The Education Board is elected by the school committees, and it has most of the power. Inspectors visit the schools about three times a year and make a report. But their chief work is the grading of the teachers. The teachers are given marks, and the progress made by pupils, the general control of the class, how many exams he has passed, and his general suitability for teaching children. A teacher who has high grading marks may seek an advanced position that has a good salary. If a teacher's marks are lowered, the salary may be lowered.

Some teachers are very clever and learned, but cannot pass their knowledge on. The system of grading is such that teachers who command the respect of their classes receive the best positions. I don't know if I have made this very clear, I hope you understand.

The Education Board also select the people who enter the training college for two years' training for the teaching profession. The Education Board give teachers their appointments. The Minister and the Education Board plan the books to be used and the courses to be studied.

At least an hour every week of school time is devoted to sports, and everybody in the school is given a chance. Inter-school matches are held and sports is encouraged. The school hours (most of them anyway) are: five days a week, work from 9 a.m. to 12 a.m. and from 1 p.m. to 3:30 p.m.

The objective of our school is to prepare every pupil to be a law-abiding citizen, one who thinks for himself in politics, etc.

Three examinations are held a year, one at the end of every 3½ months. One is expected to gain a certain percentage in these exams to show that you have been attentive to the lesson given you.

Our school is a comparatively small one but we are very happy. We get a minimum of home-work. A person keen to progress, progresses rapidly. A person rather lazy, doesn't progress so much, but learns a fair amount. We have about the best teacher in New Zealand in our school, Mr. Jackson, M.A., Dip. Ed. Every pupil respects him and takes his advice.

No child can leave school till he is 14 years old or has his proficiency certificate. If he makes satisfactory progress, he gets free schooling till he is 18 years old.

Our education system is rather an expense on our small country but we are proud of it, and it is supposed to be one of the best in the world.

If I haven't made myself clear on any point, I will seek someone's advice and write again.

If you care to continue corresponding with me I should be very pleased to write to you. One of our teachers, Miss I. Whitton, taught in Quebec for a while.

P.S. We have a school party at the end of every term. School prefects are selected and they act as intermediates between pupils and teachers.—L. M.

L.O.L. Raise Funds For Children's Home

In aid of the funds necessary for the new Protestant children's home which the provincial L.O.L. is establishing in Edmonton, the members of the local branch of that order held a very successful whist party and dance in the Masonic hall on Friday evening last when a crowded attendance was on hand to assist in this worthy cause.

Scores at the card tables ran fairly high, with ties for some of the prizes, and the final result showed winners as follows:

Ladies—Mrs. H. Schitt, 1; Miss L. Prosser, 2; Miss G. Wiley, 3; and Mrs. P. Murray.

Gentlemen—R. Ganderon, 1; J. Alderman, 2; B. James, 3; and E. Walker.

The table prize was won by Mrs. P. Murray. After a bounteous supper the large crowd enjoyed a few hours dancing to the strains of the McLennan orchestra.

The financial results for the object in hand must have been very gratifying to the local committee, all of the expenses of the affair having been donated to this branch of the order.

Spencer Gives Park Statistics

Mr. Spencer: Before the House rose a few days ago I mentioned the great buffalo park situated between Wainwright and Hainbury in Alberta. There are a few particulars which I wish to put on record with regard to this park, which has the reputation of being the largest buffalo park with the largest buffalo in the world.

The park is situated on the main line of the Canadian National Railway, 127 miles east of Edmonton and 199 miles west of Saskatoon. It has an area of 125,000 acres. The buffalo was first introduced into the park in 1910, and the locality being exceedingly good for them, and great care having been taken of them, they have increased enormously, from 745 they have increased to 24,000. Various means have been taken to keep the herd within reasonable numbers owing to the limited pasture. In the years from 1925 to 1928 no less than 6,673 were moved north to the Wood Buffalo Park in the Great Slave Lake region, and during recent years a great number have been slaughtered—to be exact 10,545. We still have approximately 1,000 in the park. Besides buffalo we have 1,000 head of elk, 2,500 mule deer, 95 moose and a small herd of yak. There are many interesting crosses between the buffalo, the yak and the domestic, which are of considerable interest to visitors.

One is expected to gain a certain percentage in these exams to show that you have been attentive to the lesson given you.

Our school is a comparatively small one but we are very happy. We get a minimum of home-work. A person keen to progress, progresses rapidly. United Y. P. A. Hold Irish Night

The monthly church gathering of the United Church Young People's association was held on Thursday night last in the church, when a large and happy group of members enjoyed the evening—given over to an "Old Ireland" celebration.

Contests, games and sing-songs, all with an Irish flavor, provided much merriment for those partaking. At midnight a delicious lunch was served and after a few more games this enjoyable social was brought to a close.

The committee in charge may well feel proud of the success of their efforts.

Excursions For Easter Holidays

In order that the travelling public may take advantage of the Easter week end, arrangements have been made by the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific railways for special low rates over the holiday period, according to Jos. B. Parker, secretary of the Canadian Passenger Association, Western Lines.

Three offerings have been arranged. There will be a fare and a quarter return, good going from April 12 to 21 inclusive, leaving destination not later than April 22. The second is a fare and one third return, good going April 18 to 21 inclusive, leaving destination not later than April 23.

A special offering is made to teachers and students of a fare and one quarter return, going April 12 to 23 inclusive, leaving destination not later than April 30. This gives teachers and students an opportunity for an 18-day holiday.

A.M.A. Strip Maps Soon Going Out

Containing a wealth of information for motorists, 100,000 new strip maps of provincial highways will be issued by the Alberta Motor Association on April 15.

These maps will be accurate and dependable in every way, giving motorists the very latest data concerning highway links according to official records of the Public Works Department.

Through improvements made by the provincial government on various highways last year, the strip maps show some changes from previous years. There will be a new map of the Jasper highway and also new directional information concerning routes in other parts of the province.

Besides mileage, the maps will give names of official garages, stopping places, camping and other facilities, all of which is so much desired by the visiting motorist.

One of the maps will show the highway being built from N. Edgar, westward, in the Rocky Mountains House region. This road is of interest as it is expected to link with the scenic highway under construction between Lake Louise and Jasper.

FAITH a Negro

I do not think I exaggerate when I say that an old Negro who was buried the other day did more than scores of ministers and hundreds of churches to help restore thousands of Americans to their faith in God. The funeral service for Richard B. Harrison, the venerable actor who played the part of "De Lawd" in the play "The Green Pastures," was conducted by the Episcopal Bishop of New York in the great Cathedral of St. John the Divine, as a tribute to the spiritual force that he had exercised in the last five years of his life. Cynics may sneer and agnostics scoff at the childlike absurdity, as it seems to them, of the simple faith of the Negro as portrayed in that play. But faith is not the product of reason or of logic, it springs not from the intellect, but from the emotions. And few who have ever seen "The Green Pastures" have failed to be profoundly stirred.

MILLIONS two girls

The matrimonial affairs of America's two richest young women are always first-page news. Everybody is interested in good-looking young women and everybody is interested in millions. The two in combination are irresistible.

Barbara Hutton, the five-and-ten cent store heiress, has announced that she is going to divorce her first and her 42 million dollars from her Georgian prince, who hadn't anything but a title and good looks to trade for $50,000 a year she has settled on him for life. I think both are getting a good bargain.

Doris Duke, with her 33 millions of tobacco money had the good sense to pick an American husband who has brains and ability in his own right, who didn't have to marry for money, having plenty of it, and who is enough older than his bride to contribute the necessary worldly wisdom to make their marriage a success. Knowing Jim Cronwell, I think both of them got a bargain, too.

MAVERICK sans party

Old Sam Maverick, who signed the Texas Declaration of Independence in 1846, has the rare distinction of having had his name become a common noun. A "maverick," as every western cow-man knows, is an unbranded steer. Sam Maverick owned so many head of cattle, and had so much trouble during the war between the states in hiring enough cowboys to brand them all, that thousands of them ran wild, as did those of many others. When the unbranded cattle were rounded up at the end of the war Sam Maverick was foremost in his claim of ownership, until it became a commonplace saying in Texas that any unbranded steer must be one of Maverick's.

The word came into many other uses, until signifies today any person who plays a lone hand and does not run with the herd.

Sam Maverick's grandson, Congressman Maury Maverick, of Texas, lives up to the definition implicit to his name. He is one of a little group who have banded together to work their own ideas of advanced legislation, regardless of party orders. Of course, they have been nicknamed "mavericks" and the name fits.

I think there is a very useful place in public life for mavericks—for men who refuse to be branded with party tags.

SUGAR maple sap

Up in Vermont they are tapping the sugar maple, five million of them. The mid-March thaw following a hard winter has started the sap flowing all along the northeastern border. Northern New York has begun to harvest its annual crop of maple sugar and syrup, though Vermont still produces more than any other state.

Around my own farm in the Berkshires some of the neighbors with families still extract the maple sap, "bleed" it down into syrup and then, usually, into maple sugar. The old "sugar bush" of somewhere above 100 years ago, two hundred years old and more, at the top of the hill above my house, hasn't been tapped for a generation now. Hired help costs too much to make sugaring profitable, and my family doesn't run to boys.

I have to get my satisfaction out of the sugar season by recalling my own boyhood, and the fun we youngsters used to have riding on the ox-wheats that carried the sap-buckets down to the big iron boiler. It probably wouldn't enjoy it much now but half the happiness of advancing years lies in remembering moments of youthful ecstasy.

SHORTAGE draft animals

While the AAA has been cutting down the number of hogs and beef cattle it has been taking a census of horses and mules and finds that a serious shortage exists on American farms. According to the experts in Washington, the country needs ten million more draft animals than it has—whether for the purpose of plowing under every third row of something or other they do not say.

Washington is discussing various schemes to bring up the number of horses and mules to the 21 million that were in use at the end of the war. To me this looks like another of those things in which the law of supply and demand will work out. If the Government keeps its hands off, with one branch of the Government trying to stimulate the manufacture and sale of motor-cars and tractors and another trying to provide more horses, it looks to me as if there were an absence of coordination somewhere.

If you think that hard times never hit this newspaper here is a letter we received in this week's mail: "Please send a few copies of the paper containing the obituary of my aunt. Also publish the enclosed clipping of the marriage of my niece who lives in Calgary. And I wish you would mention in your local column if it doesn't cost anything, that I have two bull calves for sale. As my subscription is out, please stop the paper as times are too hard to waste money on newspapers."

GRASS SEED

For best results grass seed must be sown in the cool weather. This means, according to the experts that all lawns of lawn repair work must be made either well before the first of June or in September as far as most parts of Canada are concerned. At this time there is usually plenty of moisture and nights are cool. Success lies in the selection of the highest type of seed. The latter should be regarded in the same way as the connoisseur regards tea or tobacco. There are all kinds of qualities offered, but the best blends, in the long run, prove least expensive. In Canada there are laws governing grass seed but these have been designed only to protect the inexperienced from getting a lot of weed seeds instead of grass. It is possible to put No. 1 mixture of first quality seeds which produce best results in a factory lawn. The reason is not hard to discover. A good grass mixture is made up of a blend of at least half a dozen different varieties of grasses. Some of these germinate quickly and provide shade and protection for the slower germinating, much more expensive, permanent grasses which make up the lawn from the second year on. The coarse, quick growing, short-lived grasses are cheap, and they will make a good show in a few weeks, but if they predominate in the mixture the result in the end will be a very coarse lawn that as years go by becomes increasingly unattractive.

LAWN WORK

With new lawns the spade work should be done as early as possible, preferably the fall before, though of course this warning is a bit late now. The big things the experts again point out, is to get the ground level. If there is an unavoidable slope, the levels should be connected with a short terrace, rather than slope the whole stretch too sharply. Otherwise surface drainage will be too vigorous and after a heavy thunder shower the upper portion of the lawn will start washing away. After digging or plowing the ground should be allowed to settle for a few days at least, and then leveled again. If there is time, it is advisable to repeat this process several times, because it is much easier to level before the lawn is sown than afterwards. The top soil should then be raked fine and the grass sown at a liberal rate once across and once lengthwise. This double sowing insures an even distribution. For obvious reasons seed is sown on a day when there is no wind. In covering the gardener is advised to rake one way only and then firm the soil with a heavy roller or pounder. Unless the ground has been thoroughly cultivated and then allowed to lie idle the year before there is bound to be a good deal of weed seed in the soil and some of this will germinate after the lawn is sown. Such weeds should be removed constantly, especially in the early stages. After that a good lawn fertilizer every year will push the grass along sufficiently to choke out most of these offenders. The first cutting of the grass is made when there are three inches high and should be done with a very sharp mower. Frequent rolling when the ground is soft and regular is advised.

VEGETABLE PLANTING

Leaf lettuce, radish, spinach and the first of the garden peas will be among the earliest vegetables sown. These may be planted just as soon as the ground is fit to work. The latter time does not necessarily mean as soon as the snow is gone but only when the soil crumbles rather than packs when it is stepped on. It is dangerous to work soil too soon, it is stated. Particularly is this true of heavy soils which may bake and become like concrete if worked when full of water. All of the first named seeds should be sown at least three times at intervals of ten days so that there will be a succession of vegetables. The second group to go in will be carrots, beets, onions, potatoes, etc., which can stand a little frost and then beans, corn and tomato, cabbage and cauliflower plants etc., which will with frost, as they say, those hot weather vegetables like lima beans, squash well started egg and pepper plants, cucumbers, melons and similar things. All garden rules, it should be remembered, however, are only approximate, and should be varied a little to suit the local climate and individual preference.

LARGE HIGHWAY OUTLAYS LOOKED FOR THIS YEAR

This year, splendid prospects are provided for a large expenditure on highways by the Dominion and provincial governments. The programs, still to be determined by the action of these legislative bodies when dealing with the estimates for the fiscal year, should involve large outlays, particularly on Trans-Canada Highway links in Alberta.

Year in and year out, the Alberta Motor Association has been urging the respective governments to improve the highway system. Stress has been laid on the value of this tourist traffic, something that will pour millions of dollars into this province if it is developed to the maximum degree.

As the Motor Association has made clear to the governments, good roads mean more tourists, benefit business which helps everybody. Last year, an arrangement was made between the province and Dominion under which $300,000 was made available for work on the Trans-Canada highway running by way of Medicine Hat, Calgary and Banff. A sum of $125,000 also was loaned by the Dominion to the province and "ear-marked" for completion of the highway between Edmonton and Jasper national park.

The Motor Association has urged upon the Dominion and provincial governments the need of completing as speedily as possible the Big Bend highway between Revelstoke and Golden, B.C., which will thus give Alberta a direct southern outlet by way of Banff to the Pacific coast and open a new route for tourists from eastern Canada and the United States.

In respect to the northern part of the province, the A.M.A. has urged the Dominion and British Columbia governments to proceed with completion of 42 miles of new construction on the 100-mile gap between Jasper and Blue River, B.C., which would establish a new highway connection between the prairie provinces and the Pacific coast.

Speedy action also has been urged upon the Dominion in completing what is known as the Jasper-Banff scenic highway, of which a large part has already been completed.

Rambling 'Round New York

Trusting souls, these New York apartment house managers. In the lobby of one we know, chairs in the reception hall are chained and padlocked to the wall and the door is locked. After a heavy thunder shower the upper portion of the lawn will start washing away. After digging or plowing the ground should be allowed to settle for a few days at least, and then leveled again. If there is time, it is advisable to repeat this process several times, because it is much easier to level before the lawn is sown than afterwards. The top soil should then be raked fine and the grass sown at a liberal rate once across and once lengthwise. This double sowing insures an even distribution. For obvious reasons seed is sown on a day when there is no wind. In covering the gardener is advised to rake one way only and then firm the soil with a heavy roller or pounder. Two pairs of sisters, middle-aged now, have known each other from childhood. Each pair has an apartment, one very like the other, and twice a year they trade with each other, leaving furnishings and equipment intact. One apartment is in New York. The other is in Atlantic City.

The world's highest kitchen is on the sixty-fifth floor of the RCA building in Rockefeller Center. Among the chefs who prepare food there for three dining rooms, there isn't a single woman.

Connoisseurs of that sort of thing say that the smartest night club in town is the Rainbow Room at the top of the RCA building. They have a "cellar" of fine wines and liquors in spite of the fact that it is sixty-five stories up!

"Poly is just a name, like Smith, or Jones." That's what they say at the State Charities Aid Association about one of the prettiest little four year old girls you might ask to adopt. And because the doctors can't agree about her nationality, they've been unable to decide what sort of home to put her in. The policy of the association is to place children in foster homes of the same nationality as the children, and they place hundreds every year.

Want to buy something special? Try New York, where they've recently put a combination knife and fork on the market for one-meal people.

Crossword puzzles go on. And they go on at an astonishingly increased rate of popularity since contests and prizes have increased the zeal of the fans. In fact they've increased the ardor to such an extent in New York, that the Public Library has banned the use of its reference books to puzzle. And librarians won't answer puzzle questions, either.

This was in the course of a farewell tour of the country which His Lordship is making before relinquishing his office at the end of the appointed term.

In these hard times, who pay their bills the most promptly? In the United States it was found to be the office clerks. It is not always the man with the most money who settles his accounts first.

The FAMILY DOCTOR

By JOHN JOSEPH GAINES M.D.

JUST HELPFUL HINTS

Most old physicians are more or less proud of their long experience. As I look back over my triumphs and failures of 42 years of practice, I can not forget that I have learned many valuable things, which I may be pardoned for passing on to you. I have never seen a cup of old coffee at breakfast time do any harm in any condition of ill health whatever. It is a refreshing and a wholesome stimulant which I am ready to recommend in any case, especially for old or feeble patients. This being the season for "colds" I might mention a favorite prescription of mine: keep it in the house for use even before the family doctor is called. I refer to a mixture of turpentine and eucalyptus in the proportion of one to four; say one-half ounce of turpentine and 2 ounces of the oil. This makes one of the best all-round home applications for many conditions. Use it on baby's throat and chest if he is taking cold, on grandma's back if it is aching; or on grandpa's knees when they are stiff. Sprinkle a little on a handkerchief and dispose about the bed, so it may be inhaled while sleeping; the eucalyptus is deadly for cold or influenza germs, if used in time.

Naturally I have been, as you might suppose, the enemy of all secret nostrums. I have not been willing to administer to my patients, medicine the content of which I did not know. I had plenty of good remedies without resorting to the instrument of the charlatan, gotten up solely for profit.

I suppose "liniments" will long be favorites of the shut-in; what wonderful combinations we can make with spirits of camphor, turpentine, ammonia, eucalyptus and a little tincture of capsicum—red pepper.

There is not much science in those things, but, O, how gratifying and neighborly they feel when applied in the good, old fashioned way.

Mirrors should never be cleaned with soap suds. The best results are obtained by rubbing them with a paste of whiting and water. Then polish with a dry chamois to remove the powder.

FROCK AND APRON

Pattern 8416: Here is an ensemble, unusual but fetching, for when you do your apron after you have washed the dish, you are wearing a very nice house frock.

The dress is a becoming model with its slashed sleeves, V neckline and pointed yoke. It is a complete dress in itself and can do very well without the apron. But the apron belongs to the frock by reason of its pointed line in the front (corresponding to the yoke) and its pointed pocket.

The apron buttons to the lowest button on the yoke ties at the back. It could be made in white or some other contrast instead of matching the frock. But for the complete ensemble, make your frock of the same material as sketched.

GRASSHOPPERS & CUTWORMS

An edition of 5,000 map-posters in regard to the grasshopper situation in the province of Saskatchewan has just been issued and distributed by the Entomological Branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture as part of the co-operation with the Province of Saskatchewan in the grasshopper control campaign for 1935. The poster presents a map in colors forecasting the distribution of the probable grasshopper outbreak in three categories and also indicates the areas likely to be involved in an outbreak of pale western cutworm. The map is supplemented by text outlining the general grasshopper control practices to be followed throughout the province. The combined map and poster should be of the utmost value in dealing with the impending outbreak. The poster will be distributed chiefly through the office of the Field Crops Commissioner of the Department of Agriculture, of Saskatchewan, and in addition to being on view at all municipal offices and centres of agricultural assembly will be displayed in railway stations and post offices throughout the infested part of the province.

PLANNING THE HOME GARDEN

Where the area devoted to garden is limited, careful attention must be given to such points as distance between rows and between plants, so that all space may be used to advantage. Each plant must have room to mature, yet gaps must be avoided. A study of rotation of crops and time of maturity is of great value in planning the small garden. Such crops as radish and spinach may be grown as inter-crops between the rows of later maturing crops like carrots or parsnips. Late sown crops may be planted between the rows of early maturing crops just before the latter are ready to harvest. Two or three crops of such plants as radish and lettuce may be grown on the same area. A succession of quick growing crops by planting at intervals is also desirable.

Under irrigation the different varieties of vegetables require different amounts of water and at different times. The rows should therefore be planted in a manner that water may be applied to each row as required. Furrow irrigation is preferable to sprinkling and distribution may be obtained by small perforations at proper spacings in a ten or twenty foot length of water pipe. The outer end should be blocked and the other end fitted with a hose connection.

Where land is cheap or where the garden may be laid out in any shape desired ease of cultivation should be considered. All the rows may be placed the same distance apart, just wide enough for a horse cultivator, whether the vegetable requires little room or a great deal of room to mature. The rows should be as long as possible for horse cultivation and several kinds of vegetables may be planted in the same row. Less time is wasted in turning, and also less ground in turning ends which are often weedy. A few minutes with a horse cultivator will keep a farm garden reasonably free from weeds during the rush season in the spring when there is not time for hand hoeing. Horse cultivation reduced the amount of hand labor to a minimum and brings down the cost of production. At the same time it often means the difference between success and failure with the farm garden. For this reason, the garden should be located close to both house and barn. Being readily accessible from the barn may mean time would be taken to cultivate the garden when it would not if a special trip were necessary for the work.

A NEW HEN

Canada has contributed materially to the making of what is claimed a new hen which has been evolved by agricultural scientists at Cambridge University, England. The bird at the moment is the object of considerable attention in Old Country and concerning it the "Spectator" says: "Few successes of greater interest and practical possibilities have been won in the field of agricultural biology than the making of the new Cambridge hen." Her chicks declare their sex at birth, because the males and females are differently marked.

This is a great advantage to the poultry industry, since chicks travel safely and well only during the first two days of their life. The new breed, known as Cambar, was developed by Dr. B. C. Punnet and his associates at Cambridge, England, by the application of Medelian principles. By the use of the Canadian Barred Plymouth Rock (supplied by the University of British Columbia to Cambridge University) both silver and golden Cambars have been evolved. They are prolific layers of large colored eggs, whilst still possessing the virtue of sex-linked chicks. These chicks mark an epoch in the scientific breeding of poultry.

Vinegar crickets can be easily and thoroughly cleaned with diluted ammonia. Never wash food decorated glassware with strong soap. If the soap is too strong it will eat off the gold.

Home canneries for fruits and vegetables on the farm and in rural areas are a recent development of great importance and possibilities. The movement is spreading in Ontario where 100,000 cases were produced in 1934.

GRANT FLEMING, M.D., ASSOCIATE SECRETARY

FRANKNESS

There is no argument in favor of war, but some good has come out of it. During the Great War there was more evidence of willingness to give disinterested service than at any other time, service which is perhaps the outstanding need of our country today.

Before the war, there was a great deal of hypocrisy which was destroyed by the stern realities of a life and death struggle. It was not until the vital importance of man power came to be understood that the public became informed as to one group of diseases which, for generations, had been sapping the life blood of the nation.

The history of the world might be written around the diseases which have afflicted mankind. Early in the old testament, we read that one of the venereal diseases had made its appearance. Since that time, history records many references to the efforts made to control syphilis and gonorrhoea.

As we have said, the history of mankind and the history of disease go hand in hand. Small pox was unknown in North America until it was introduced by the early settlers. It is estimated that fully one-half of the North American Indians perished from this disease introduced by the white men.

Such being the case, it seems but justice, if it be true, as most observers believe, that syphilis was brought back to Europe by the earliest discoverers. True it is that it did then appear in a most severe and destructive form as it is now a new disease attacking for the first time. What the Great War accomplished in this direction was to allow us to view the two venereal diseases, which are major enemies, and, instead of adopting an ostrich-like attitude as to them for what they are. We cannot get anywhere in fighting diseases unless we know the strength and weakness of our enemies.

The strength of venereal disease has been that the public were left uninformed as if here were something to be ashamed of, something not to be mentioned in polite society. Its weakness is that proper treatment gets under way, the sooner will results be obtained. Some progress has been made, and progress will be accelerated in proportion to the frankness with which the situation is faced.

JUDAS MACCABAEUS

Judas Maccabaeus' record falls between the Old and the New Testaments and is told in detail in the books which form the Bible in slightly smaller type and called the Apocrypha.

Alexander the Great was kind enough to conquer the world at one of the earliest of all dates to remember, 333 B.C. When he was asked, "To whom do you leave your kingdom?" he answered, "To the strongest." In the division which followed, Palestine was under the domination of Ptolemy, who ruled Egypt. He caused the Old Testament to be translated into Greek. The ancient Hebrew was no longer a spoken language and most of the Jews who could read at all read Greek. In the subsequent redistributions of authority, Palestine passed under the domination of a Greek-Syrian, namely Antiochus Epiphanes endeavored to unify his little empire by instituting a kind of emperor-worship, or worship of the state.

Many thousands of Jews accepted this bastard form of idolatry, including most of the priests. But there was one aged priest, Mattathias, who revolted and withdrew from Jerusalem, taking with him his five sons, Jochanan, Simon, Judas, Eleazar and Jonathan. Even that retired country village was not secure from the invasion of the new paganism. To his horror, the old priest saw one of his summer neighbors come to render the detested worship, a priest of God leading him in the new idolatry. Full of wrath, the old man killed both the idolator and the priest, and he and his sons fled to the mountains. There they rallied a band of revolutionists. They gathered strength until they were able to meet the armies of Antiochus in open battle, at first with no faintest hope of winning but

PRAIRIE PROVINCES TURN DOWN POULTRY POOL

The scheme to regulate the marketing of poultry and eggs in the prairie provinces will not be put into effect according to an announcement from Ottawa. The recent poll of producers gave 62.5 per cent for the scheme in Alberta; 63.4 per cent in Saskatchewan and 24.3 per cent in Manitoba.

Canada was easily first among the exporters of oats to the British Isles in 1934, with 1,941,279 cwt.

THE HEART OF A FRIEND"Broken friendship" says a writer "like china, may be repaired, but the break will always show."

And it is a bit of real truth and wisdom. Friendship is a precious thing—too precious a treasure to be carelessly broken or thrown away.

The world handles the word "friend" lightly; its real, true, deeper meaning is forgotten, and the acquaintance of an hour or the chance comer is designated by the term which in itself bears a wealth of meaning.

Your friend is the one who appreciates you—your faults as well as your virtues—who understands and sympathizes with your defeats and victories, your aims, ideals, your joys and temptations, your hopes and disappointments, as no one else does or can. It is to your friend to whom you turn for counsel, for comfort, for praise; he may not be as learned as some or as wise as others, but it suffices that he understands you, and even his quiet listening gives strength and renewed courage. And remember that such a friendship will be found more readily and more profitably in your own home rather than outside acquaintances. Friendship between husband and wife, between parents and children is a priceless gift.

Blessed is the man or woman into whose life has come the beauty and power of such a friendship. Privately, do all in your power to keep such a friendship unbroken. Avoid the break, for when it comes it cannot be easily mended, and the paring life may be marred. It is not alone a question of forgiveness; it may be full and complete. It is the hurt in the heart that will not readily heal and the confidence that will not fully come back.

The POOR

AUTOMOBILE OWNER

First, if he is living in Canada, he pays from four hundred to several thousand dollars for the privilege of buying it on this side of the international boundary. We suppose there are compensations, though, for he is able to buy the car.

Then, after the Dominion Government or Eastern manufacturer takes the first gouge, the trouble just starts.

First comes a minor gouge in the tax dollars, up, for licenses to the province.

Then comes the problem. Cars run on gasoline. Governments run on money. The province, hence, worked out the answer. Every time the little bell clicks at the filling pump, seven cents goes to the government. Every time the buyer pays out a dollar for gasoline the province gets twenty per cent of it. At the end of the season the province has the money; the car owner has a lame back from driving over northern roads.

In order to ensure the continuation of the supply, it is believed the province keeps all weather roads out of the better-off districts such as this. They figure that we need the winter's few months respite in order to save up to pay our next summer's gasoline tax.

A very successful masquerade dance was held in the school in the Aspen district about one hundred and fifty attending. The costumes were many, some very handsome ones indeed. Miss Peggy Murdoch, carrying away first prize for a lad as a jockey, which was very well represented. Mr. J. J. J. as King of Persia was awarded first in the gent's class and was well deserving of it. Mrs. Dick Bishop took a prize for comic dress as Satan as did Mrs. Walter Bushey as "Owl Black Mammy." The music supplied by the Aspen orchestra was as usual the very best. Supper served by the committee was thoroughly enjoyed after which dancing was resumed.

About sixty friends of Mrs. Wainwright's gave her a surprise on her birthday, March 31st by dropping in to spend the evening. Music and dancing was the main feature of the amusement. A beautiful birthday cake was presented her along with many other good things.

Our hockey boys were not able to play the Sligo team on account of the weather.

The Athletic club held their regular annual meeting Wednesday night to arrange the summer season's affairs. The Social Credit group met the same evening.

March is sure going out like a lion sorry to say—but cheer up—this can't last forever. Mr. Armstrong and Fred Krimbill journeyed to Heath on Saturday. I understand one of our neighbors have seventeen spring chickens a week old—nothing slow about that.

This is expected to be the last one of the season and the funds will go toward the financing of the picnic held in the summer for the pupils.

DON'T DO THIS

We again ask our correspondents not to include announcements of entertainments, held for the purpose of making money, in news budgets. The place for these is our advertising columns. Our advertisement department is our stock and trade, to ask us to donate space is asking us to hand out so much of the stuff we have to sell to make a living.

We donate a lot of space during the year to promoting community schemes but we cannot promote money-making schemes for all the organizations in the community. If a newspaper was subsidized by the Government, this might be done, but it isn't. Here's a rule to go by when sending in news items—if a fee is charged for any gathering an announcement regarding same is advertising. Our advertising rates are not high, and they bring results. Our correspondents are asked to keep these things in mind when sending in news.

Shopping For Utopia

Condensed from The Saturday Evening Post by Margaret Cuklin Banning

I have been told that before Congress convened, six million people had endorsed the Townsend Plan, some of them so convinced that this idea will be adopted by the Government that they have given up trying to save anything. Upton Sinclair had an equally convinced group back of his EPIC plan, which was chiefly featured by a promise to take over idle land and factories, and to operate them by giving work to the unemployed. Over 800,000 people cast votes for his idea.

You can take your choice of these two Utopian plans, or if you find them faulty, you can model one to suit yourself. Dozens of plans are in circulation. Some deal with unemployment insurance, others with a completely new system of society. According to one plan, "Security" against all the hazards of life should be the responsibility of the Government.

The other day I asked a Communist, "What are you really after?" Instead of speaking of the neglected claims of human brotherhood, he said frankly, "I want the assurance of security."

Certainly the new pet word in this country is "security." I believe it has had more use in the past year than in all the previous history of the United States. It is on the lips of the Communists, people on relief, Townsends, and politicians. I've talked with these different people, and have been fascinated by their common assurance that there was a way to get security and hold it. I listened very attentively, because I don't know how to get security and I doubt whether I could keep it.

The Communist wanted to destroy the existing Government in order to insure security for everybody. The politician, on the other hand, insisted that the Government be upheld without a murmur of criticism from anybody. The people on relief argued variously for insurance projects or larger money doles, or ownership of the means of production.

With such disagreement, somebody must be wrong. And plans which lead away from common sense, which raise the popular hopes to such heights that they become dizzy, which scatter energies that should be concentrated on feasible progress, do real damage.

The more I hear that word "security" taken out of its proper context in human experience, and tossed about, and the more it becomes tangled up with pensions or doles, the surer I am that many people are indulging in a false and dangerous psychology. For I believe that no one is in a position to promise security.

It is true that the President, aware of a widespread hope that was rapidly becoming a claim, has appointed a committee to draft plans for social security. The first thing that the committee asked for was plenty of time to study the situation. They will need it. I respect that committee, but there is nothing extraordinary in the expectation that any committee can work out in a month or a year what the world has directed itself toward for long generations. Improvement and change must come. But life has always resisted that word "security" and the fact behind the word. What is more, the emphasis on security as the highest attainable human goal is creating a nervous dread of insecurity which neither past nor present history justifies.

The fear spreads too far. There is no wonder that a person long out of work, who has no resources, should fear insecurity. But when I see, as I often do, men and women who are well employed shivering over a possible future insecurity, wondering how they'll get along five or ten years from now, I cannot help feeling that they are—to put it sweetly—yellow. We need to be reminded that insecurity in itself is not fatal, nor unusual; until lately we have expected a certain amount of it in our lives.

Sometimes it is incredible to me that, even in a time of painful need like the present, we should have grown so outrageously sentimental. To say that every old person does not deserve a pension now draws the blackest looks. But the fact is true. Continuance of life in itself is not a virtue. So much depends on how one has spent such a life, whether industriously or in dissipation, with civil and social generosity or in personal selfishness. The theatrical tremble in the public voice of this country just now when the words "old age" are mentioned, the sloppy sympathy, the ready tears, are not things on which we can build progress. A life well spent, or a life which has been ill-rewarded for its efforts, both deserve great and tender consideration in their unfebbled years. Even selfish and evil old people have to be cared for. But we must keep our heads and stop sobbing.

I believe in the wisest social insurance that can be devised. I am no expert economist, but I know this: That the best social and old age insurance must be drawn from the funds to which a man or woman has contributed while earning. The industry which has employed him, used his abilities for its profit, and possibly worn away his strength, should also contribute. Perhaps the Government as well must set aside part of its taxes for the same purpose. But however, this may be worked out, insurance should be something you and I save and save for ourselves, at least in part. To some extent it should be contingent on our efforts and earnings, and not a pension handed out because one of us was lucky in enough in crossing the streets to live until 60.

The present Utopian schemes are only examples of others that will come to the surface during current legislative sessions. Some will be easily dismissed, but others may take hold of the popular imagination and be difficult to deny. All will raise the question of how security for everyone is to be provided.

Now, how much security can a government promise its people? I don't think that is too hard a problem for simple contemplation. Our own Government can go a long way. It can try to protect its people in time of war, though less fortunate nations have been forced to sacrifice far too many citizens to protect the security of others. It can afford security against unlawful search or seizure, against unfair detention, or cruel punishment. It can promote research and experiments which may bulwark physical security. On and on goes the list of the things the Government can do and is doing. But there is one thing a government cannot do. It cannot earn a living for the individual.

It can, of course, provide employment for individuals in one way or another. But there is a limit to that. When the Government goes beyond the point of paying for services which it really needs, or when it creates meaningless jobs, it is simply storing up trouble.

A government can also provide employment for its citizens by taking over the industries and resources of the country and running them. This, of course, means Socialism and Communism. Whether the reward of this employment would be synonymous with economic security would be dependent upon the national income. We do not know this; that in other countries where this is tried, many people are not on relief. They starve. We do know that the modicum of security which the average worker is assured in Russia keeps his standard of living far below that which citizens of this country, even many of those on relief, insist upon. And our standard of living is none too high.

The only other method by which a government can supply individuals with money or its equivalent up to the point of security is by taxing one citizen to support another. This has been done as far as it can in this country without drying up the sources of taxation, and it already has created vast dissatisfactions. The Government's sympathy and benevolence have resulted ungratefully in creating its weakest and most vulnerable spot.

The President has said this: "Among our objectives I place the security of men, women and children of the nation first."

This is a noble statement and a warning one. But I wonder if many people do not misunderstand it. For the governmental conception of security, as later defined by Mr. Hopkins, does not mean "that society owes every man a living, but it does mean that every man shall have access to the opportunity to provide for himself and his family a decent way of living." "Access to opportunity" is not a dole. But if one reads the statement carefully and listens to the minor prophets—and so many do—the impression is that security is far closer and more practicable than it really is. So get-security-quick schemes spring up. No one would care if they did not delude the people. But it seems to me just as bad to sell people a false scheme of security as any other kind of gold brick.

I said at the beginning that I did not know how to get security or how to keep it. But I have my own attitude. I live in a troubled country, and the future is not at all clear. But I try not to be afraid of it. Perhaps that is the answer. Security is in a person, and in a great many such persons who make up the body of a nation. Security is here in the United States if we do not let it wither. You will repeat that there are twenty millions of people on relief and I will repeat that I know that and suffer the thought, but that I do not believe unearned billions will ever get them off relief.

Great social advances have been made in our country in the past few years. Our whole citizenry has become convinced not only that economic distribution should be fairer but that it is going to be fairer. Also, in a time of great distress, the people of the United States have been cared for and have cared for one another. We ought to be proud of ourselves for that achievement. It isn't a small one. But we should not forget, in our vainglory, that we have been able to do much of this because there were incomes to tax industries to regulate and private generosity to stir. All this time we have been drawing on the reserves of the past, and yet it is popular to turn on the whole past with vituperation.

It was our capable citizens who built up the past, those resources on which we have been drawing, and we must rely on our capable citizens in the future also. For the capable not only work but they give employment to others. Probably they would not produce Utopia. But well-intentioned republic, in which private greed is disciplined and enterprise encouraged, in which education is fostered, in which both employment and the giving of employment are regarded with honor, has a better chance of helping its people to safety than anything on the horizon.
